How do we ensure that we reach your wishes and goals?

OVB has focused on security of livelihood for more than 45 years

Insuring existential risks in the areas of health, income, and retirement provisions is the most important objective there is.

Your ability to work secures your regular income and thus your quality of life and standard of living. For this reason it is important to be able to compensate possible consequences of losing the ability to work, be it through illness or accident, through a suitable and reasonable insurance.

Safely building and protecting income during retirement is also an important component of our advice.

Even joining OVB as a second job can help secure your existence.
